PARTIE I

Inani Huztu I

1. Truly I have taken refuge with God, the Helper (Al-Muʿīn), from all harm and from every accursed one,

2. turning my aspiration to my Lord, the Most High, hoping that He will give me to drink of a flowing spring,

3. holding fast to the Book as a blind man holds the hand of the clear-sighted guide who helps him.

4. It is my might, my elevation and my treasures, and through it I hope for the submission of the refractory.

5. Whoever through it seeks to tame something hard and stubborn, it leads it to him obedient, with docility.

6. It is my pride, my firm handhold and my companion, together with the ḥadīth of the possessor of distinctions, the firmly established (Muḥammad):

7 Aḥmad, the greatest praiser among praisers, Aḥmad, my succour: and toward my Lord, through this and those, is my reliance.

8 O my God, pour upon him blessing and peace, together with his Family and the people of certainty,

9 among the Companions, who devoted themselves wholly to a Guardian (Al-Wakīl) Who guided them with the light of the truth of certainty.

10 Lord, grant me uprightness and zeal in what pleases You, and erase from me what lies buried (within me).

11 O my God, O You in Whom is my trust, loosen my fetter by taming the people of the ships.

12 Hasten the (spiritual) opening and bestow outpourings that put to shame the downpour of laden clouds.

13 Lord, undo my captivity and my pledge, for by my sins I am shackled in prisons.

14 Lord, I am a servant of many disobediences, and disobediences are ḥāʾ, bāʾ and sīn (ḥabs, prison).

15 Train me, Lord, raise me, set my state aright; purify for me the nūn before fā’ and sīn (nafs, the soul).

16 Adorn me, Lord, adorn me with distinctions, like shīn before mīm and sīn (shams, the sun).

17 Answer my supplication for me with what surpasses my expectation, and with what surpasses, Lord, every conjecture.

18 Grant me unveiling, (making me) endowed with sciences and deeds, and erase from me what was like madness.

19 Grant me today, O my God, firmness; purify my breast for me, without the rusts (of the heart).

20 Pardon me, bear in my place the rights (I owe) to creatures, and settle my debts for me.

21 And grant me to be a servant of the Mighty Book at every time.

22 Grant me today to take my religion from it, standing (in prayer), reciting without faults of pronunciation.

23 Unveil its secrets to me and grant me its guidance, and the guidance of the Sunna of the Trustworthy, the firmly established (Muḥammad).

24 Bless him unceasingly, Lord, and grant him peace, and through him make my repose in You endure.

25 And make recitation and night prayer endure for me in the nights, and ever raise my state.

26 By my imām, my refuge and my chief, and through him take charge for ever of my provision.

27 And grant me to follow in his footsteps in belief, and in word as in deed, throughout the time of my sojourn (here below).

28 And through him drive the enemies away from me, and ever guard my inner self from them.

29 O Rescuer Who helps every poor one, loosen the fetter of him who has become like a hostage.

30 Lord, by the Chosen One, the Last to Come, my beloved and my physician against the incurable, humiliating disease,

PARTIE 2

Inani Huztu 2

31 answer me, purify my heart and illumine it, (making it) wide, able to retain all the texts.

32 And grant me perpetual protection, (making me) safe from harm and from temptations.

33 Lord, hasten the fulfilment of my needs, and soon gladden, through me, my mosques and my contemporaries.

34 Lord, lead me and grant me the loftiest of requests, and make this Book my companion.

35 And bear witness for me that I have cast off for good what I have sold, and make following in the footsteps of him whose intercession is accepted my religion.

36 Bless him unceasingly, Lord, and grant him peace, together with the notables through whom my softening appeared.

37 Lord, grant me in this world and the Other to be a worshipper and a servant, with the best guardianship.

38 Yours is Dāru s-Salām (Darou Salam), Lord, and Ṭūbā (Touba): grant me, Lord, in both an abiding dwelling.

39 And tame for me, O Lord, land and sea, while I abide in my places of gratitude, furnished with fortresses.

40 And make contentment in You endure for me, my Lord, (making me) rightly guided and a guide, with a guarded secret.

41 And bring me my desires without toil, (making me) a worshipper and a servant with the best religion.

42 And through me benefit, in this world and the Other, my household, (making me) the rescuer of every beggar and debtor.

43 And gladden the learned with my knowledge, and the ignorant too; and tame my time for me.

44 And gladden all who learn, and through me guard them all from errors of speech.

45 And ever gladden the orphans through me; through me make them forget their fathers at all times.

46 Lord, increase me in knowledge (Qur'ān 20:114) and increase me in deeds, O Generous One toward Whom my longing is unceasing.

47 Grant me unveiling, upright and penitent, in the Clear Book, root of the disciplines.

48 Answer my supplication, be gentle with me and bring me more than I sought with lament and moaning.

49 And convey from You, Lord, the best blessing, with peace, to the Intercessor, the Trustworthy.

50 And grant me felicity, give abundance, and through him inscribe me among the people of the right hand.

51 And shield me from harm and trials, tame the enemies for me and make my help everlasting.

52 And spare me the whole host of enemies, and grant me refuge in You from Iblīs, the stoned, the accursed.

53 And illumine my heart with an opening, and expand for me, Lord, my breast (Qur'ān 20:25) with the outpouring of flowing spring water.

54 And bring me my desires perpetually, O Helper Who never ceases to be the best of helpers.

55 And guide me today, O my God, and make my work pure like the flowing of springs.

56 And erase my faults from me, and tame for me for ever every lying denier.

57 And increase the best of creatures in blessing and peace, and ever increase my shelter.

58 Increase my guarding against all Your prohibitions, and protect me from the harm of every miserly envier.

59 And perfect my creed, my knowledge and my deeds, and raise them all today, O my Helper.
