PARTIE 1

Muqadamatul Amdah 1

1. I have placed my trust in the Lord of the Throne, Possessor of generosity and pardon, together with the Chosen One (Muḥammad); and God makes my purity everlasting.

2. I have placed my trust, together with the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār, Muḥammad), in God alone; upon him the two salutations of peace of Him (Allah) who through him erased my idle words.

3. Through him He has kept me from evil, been with me in granting my wishes, and led to me sincerity, by which He erased my heedlessness.

4. I have entered as Servant (Khadīm) into my eulogy of Muḥammad — upon him God's blessing — as long as He guards my course for me.

5. I have entered as Servant (Khadīm) into my eulogy of my Means (Muḥammad); upon him the two salutations of peace of God, who exalts him and spreads his renown.

6 Every possessor of knowledge, striving and rank has fallen short of the Chosen One (Muḥammad), in his character that encompasses all sublimity.

7 Eminent, uniting (to God), arrived (at the goal), vast (in grace): he has Companions through whom God has spared me armed expedition.

8 Handsome of face, generous in giving, faithful executor, means to the best of Lords, whose remembrance has erased my idle diversion.

9 True to his word, generous, he promises and his promise has come to pass; through him the unjust has turned towards others than us, seized with fright.

10 Friend (of God), Prophet to the creatures, Messenger of Him (Allah) who through him has driven the oppressor and the assailant towards others than us.

11 My love goes to my Lord, to the one who came last (Al-Muqaffā, Muḥammad), to his company and to whoever loves them; and God has been with me in pardon.

12 I have placed my trust in the Everlasting (Allah), through whom I became His servant and Servant (Khadīm) of the best of creation, with constancy and purity.

13 I seek the good pleasure of Him (Allah) who guards my whole being at all times, for the Companions of him (Muḥammad) with whose love my heart is filled.

14 My God, be well pleased with the Companions of the Prophet, leading joy to them whenever the praiser recites my eulogy.

15 My beloved ones in the two abodes are the Companions, through whom my God has driven towards others than me whoever is not free (of evil).

16 God willed nothing but that he (Muḥammad) be master through them; they subdued the disbelievers, and all (the enemies) they struck down.

17 Lions against the enemies, lamps in the darkness; and each, valiant, severs the head of the disbeliever.

18 Lions: whenever a rash one sets upon them, he returns a coward, weeping, and his rashness is erased.

19 O Servant of the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār, Muḥammad), do not forget his Companions: whoever forgets them, his eulogy is a faulty eulogy.

20 Abū Bakr aṣ-Ṣiddīq (the Truthful), man of sincerity and fidelity, companion of the Prophet, the Chosen One, in the cave: it bears witness to this.

21 Abū Ḥafṣ (ʿUmar) al-Fārūq (the Discerner), whose equal is rare: through him the religion of the Chosen One grew strong when it was being shaken.

22 Is there among the Companions one who resembles the son of ʿAffān (ʿUthmān), the man of modesty? His the light, then (again) the light (Dhū n-Nūrayn): how excellent the one who gave (him) a home!

23 The father of the two grandsons of the Chosen One (Al-Ḥasan and Al-Ḥusayn), who is the son of his uncle, ʿAlī: he rose high and was chosen; how excellent a fearless one!

24 O Companions of the Messenger of God, I am his Servant (Khadīm), who loves you in God; and God watches over (all).

25 The love of God — how excellent a Vigilant Guardian! — has held me back from swerving from what was chosen; and Truth is most worthy (to be followed).

26 I have cast away worthless things, as servant of my Lord alone, Servant of him (Muḥammad) whom tongues have wearied of grasping.

27 I have razed the edifice of falsehood with truth, praising the Incomparable one (Muḥammad), of a character before which every custom falls short.

28 I have resolved to persevere in remembrance and thanksgiving, as Servant of the best of creation: how excellent, handsome and adorned with grace!

29 Prophet, Messenger, the best of servants and master, Intimate Friend, Beloved, whose like is never seen.

30 Intimate confidant (of God), near, the one who remembers and gives thanks, bountiful, generous, doing good with noble deeds.

31 Pure, God-fearing, righteous and himself a reformer, Bearer of glad tidings for whoever submits to God in truth.

32 Illustrious, refined in conduct, modest, polished, a Warner to whoever proclaims disbelief and association.

33 Sincere counsellor without deceit, knowing and teaching, bountiful without reproach, of softening speech.

34 Noble, wondrous, tireless (in worship) and an ascetic: he is the one who enjoins (good) and forbids (evil), who perseveres in good.

35 Chief, watchful, answering, purified, the Messiah (Al-Masīḥ, a name of the Prophet), refuge; he is the Effacer (Al-Māḥī) and the benefactor.

36 Of noble lineage, of noble rank, rich in gifts, O Placed Foremost! He is "Mankind" (an-Nās) and the Balance: how excellent the one made firm!

37 A Prophet of immense and manifest rank: he is the Chosen (Al-Muṣṭafā), the Elect (Al-Mukhtār), he is the Designated.

38 His Prophethood was manifest before creation; his was the precedence when the forefather (Adam) was still kept in clay.

39 Valiant, glorious, bringing (to God) whoever turns to him; exalted, favoured, the one who enriches and who proclaims (the Truth).

40 My gain, my permanence and my triumph, without hardship, are made manifest in my being the Servant (Khadīm) of the Chosen One (Muḥammad).

41 His sincere counsel has appeared to me in secret and in the open; through him the All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān) has led to me a veil that guards like a fortress.

42 I have intended the good pleasure of the All-Merciful in my service to him (Muḥammad) through whom (God) has driven away from my path whoever does not submit.

43 By (the grace of) the Prophet, God has driven the envious towards others than us, and they have been driven towards others, away from the one who practises divination.

44 The One (Al-Wāḥid), the Subduer (Al-Qahhār), through him has repelled the enemies from me: one by one and two by two they turned their backs, then were made to yield.

45 Through him I have made fruitful a land whose harvests have become pure; upon him the two salutations of peace of the Best of Enrichers, He who establishes.

46 His purity has cleansed my whole being of idle words; and his Sunna, if my Lord wills, I shall make manifest.

47 I have kept myself pure in being servant of my Lord and Servant of him (Muḥammad); and through him the Giver of abode (Allah) has purified my life and my home.

48 I have resolved, for what has been chosen for me, to give thanks by serving the best of creation: how excellent the one who came last, the Designated!

PARTIE 2

Muqadamatul Amdah 2

49 I have written (this poem) when my whole being had parted from sin and association, and already before my Lord had purchased what I had sold Him through renunciation.

50 My words, my intentions and my deeds have turned to Him (Allah) who has sufficed me against evil, harm and doubt.

51 The Guardian (Al-Ḥafīẓ), the Defender (Al-Māniʿ), has sufficed me against all the enemies, and has led to me beloved ones through whom I manifest devotion.

52 I have written with the intent of giving thanks to my Lord, addressing him (Muḥammad) whose love has removed straitness from my breast.

53 You were noble and surpassed all, O best of the Sent: upon you a blessing (salāt) whose fragrance has put musk to shame.

54 You lifted the darkness from us and guided us all together: upon you a peace whose scent disdains the bunka (a prized aromatic essence, al-bunk).

55 My distresses, O Key (Al-Miftāḥ), you have dispelled from me; and already before you had driven away the enemies, ignorance and falsehood.

56 You clothed the naked just as you fed the hungry, and delivered him from his fetters, O best of those who unbind.

57 You dispelled the darkness of my heart and protected my whole being by the safekeeping of Him (Allah) who, whenever one complains, answers the complaint.

58 Your cups give me drink, bringing me glad tidings, and you have led to me an outpouring that has put the sea and the ships to shame.

59 Your Book (O Lord) is my religion, my intimate friend and my companion; through it the Guide (Al-Hādī) has guided me and purified my soul.

60 A noble Book, from a Generous One who honours, through which I have been kept from the enemies, from sin and from association.

61 To my Lord my praise: He has erased the fetters from me and led to me an outpouring that has put the sea and the pouring rain to shame.

62 His is praise and thanksgiving, without end; He is the One, the Enricher, who has multiplied the little.

63 To Him my thanksgiving after praise, as I address Him whose generosity has led to me what has put the steady rain to shame.

64 Yours (O Prophet) is precedence and pre-eminence, O best of masters, with the One, the Subduer, the sublime Lord of creation.

65 Yours are knowledge, works and all good: upon you God's blessing, O you who have surpassed (even) the origin.

66 Yours is excellence, O Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār), O master of creation: upon you God's peace, O you who have erased humiliations.

67 You are truly the Imām of the Messengers: it has been transmitted that they met you in the Night Journey (al-Isrā'), and all prayed (behind you).

68 You have put on the garments of glory, excellence and sublimity, and in you are virtues that have left all powerless (to describe them).

69 You endured from the enemies what showed us all together that you are the lion who routed their host.

70 To whoever comes seeking from you a gift together with guidance, (you grant) gifts of gladness that repel poverty and famine.

71 For whoever ignorance has led towards you in rashness, (there is) a severe punishment that leaves as its legacy misery and violent death.

72 For you, at all times, I seek from my God His blessing upon you, together with peace, O you who have erased the fetters.

73 In God, who has led the Law (ash-sharʿ) to me through the Chosen One (Muḥammad), I have placed my trust, as servant and attendant, fearing no downfall.

74 In Him is my reliance, well pleased with Him, Servant of the Servant (Muḥammad) whom He made journey by night and who passed beyond the seven (heavens).

75 Upon the Chosen One, the best of creation, Muḥammad, be the blessing of Him (Allah) who has led to me what has made my ease everlasting.

76 Upon you God's blessing, O best of the elect, together with His peace, O you who have guided the trunk and the branches.

77 Upon you the two salutations of peace of Him (Allah) to whom all command belongs, just as through you He has led to me privileges and the return (home).

78 Upon you a blessing joined with peace, together with your company, from the Vast, the Everlasting, who has made my abundance everlasting.

79 You have risen to a height with which none vies, save one doomed to a wretchedness that draws upon itself curse and rejection.

80 My refuge is in Him (Allah) who has exalted you as servant and master, Intimate Friend and Beloved, and has led His remembrance to me, once and for all.

81 His gifts, on land and sea, lead me to give Him thanks, ever since He made good the soul and the pasture.

82 His wonders, on land and sea, have appeared to me, because you (O Prophet) are the one I serve; and He has brought benefit to me.

83 My sciences, my spiritual knowledge (ʿirfān) and my striving are pure, for Him (Allah) who through you has led to me the writings and the Law.

84 My hardship, you have erased it from me through God's erasing; and my life was purified by Him who turned the downfall towards others.

85 Towards the Lord of creation, Him alone, my whole being has turned, with what has been chosen for me, without harmer or burden.

86 My tongue, my pens, my heart and my body belong to the Enricher, the Generous, the Bestower of benefit, exalted above all likeness.

87 For us He has sent the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār, Muḥammad), a servant placed foremost, Intimate Friend and Beloved, surpassing the entire multitude.

88 To him, at all times, my eulogies, as a Servant addressing him; and in his eulogies there has come to me the most fruitful of lawful gains.

89 Yours are the radiant miracles, O best of masters: upon you God's blessing, O you who gather what was scattered.

90 Truly you were most patient, grateful and sincere in counsel: upon you God's peace, O you who erase ignorance.

91 Yours are the extraordinary miracles with which, in former times, without dispute, all the Messengers came.

92 To you the tree came walking on its trunk, at your call, just as the full moon split, witness then to (your) excellence.

93 (Praise) to Him (Allah) who sent down the verses by which you have guided me: a mighty Book, which has made the Truth manifest through (His) grace.

94 My tongue and my limbs are servants to Him through you, and to Him I have entrusted my spirit and my soul, together with my deeds.

95 To Him, at all times, my intentions, my knowledge and my service, my spirit, my body and my whole being, without any loss.

96 You are truly the Intimate Friend, the Beloved, O best of intercessors; and your like the Everlasting (Allah), who has protected my whole being, never created.

PARTIE 3

Muqadamatul Amdah 3

97 Wherever I may be (ʿayth), O you who give life, my heart and my spirit visit you on my behalf, laden with glad tidings, in an instant.

98 My eulogy, which I have imposed upon my soul with effort, recounts your merits, which have no end.

99 My certainty protects me from forsaking the praises of a master (Muḥammad) through whom the Everlasting (Allah) has sufficed me against the people of injustice and error.

100 Upon my right hand lies the debt of a writing that has held (divine) good pleasure, in the service of my Intimate Friend, the man of Medina, bearer of right guidance.

101 He (Allah) pours blessing and peace upon you, through whom a handful (of sand) from your hand scattered the enemies with the throw.

102 There come to you from me, at every moment and every hour, good pleasure and thanksgiving, companions of love for the Living (Allah).

103 The Everlasting (Allah), who has favoured me with inspiration, pours blessing and peace upon you, your Family and your Companions.

104 The Everlasting brings you, as a mark of honour, glad tidings of my writing, even though I am far from the land of Medina.

105 My Lord turns towards others than me all that I do not love, through you, in the two abodes, O you who draw down protection.

106 The Everlasting brings me the glad tidings of the Bestower of benefit, through you, at all times, O possessor of precedence, excellence and nearness (to God).

107 My whole being venerates your whole being, today and tomorrow; and if my Lord wills, I shall never be seen to falter.

108 My whole being strengthens the bond of my love and my service, through Him (Allah) who has led to me, in an instant (ṭayy), the most excellent of spiritual stations.

109 I have come out, by God's grace, from whatever draws rebuke, and the rebuker turns towards the people who forsook me.

110 I have come out, by God's grace, from all falsehood into the Truth, and faith in God takes firm root.

111 The treasuries of my Lord have been opened for me, and have driven every harm towards others than me, in this world, the next and the Barzakh (the intermediate realm).

112 Accept thanksgiving from me, as one accepts what exalts, and through it bring glad tidings to the Chosen One (Muḥammad), O best of guides, who confers the rank of master.

113 I have come out of harm together with the Effacer (Al-Māḥī, Muḥammad), by (the grace of) my Lord; and whoever swells with pride does not turn towards me.

114 Addressing you, O best of creatures, is my felicity: it gives security to my whole being on the Day the Trumpet is blown.

115 You have repelled the enemies from me, and driven those who transgressed towards others than us, while each of them swelled with arrogance.

116 Your Servant (Khadīm) is well pleased with you: accept his thanksgiving, for the Face of Him (Allah) for love of whom he is effaced in you.

117 His sins have been erased from him after repentance to the Everlasting, whose servant he is, sighing humbly towards Him.

118 Accept this year, O Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār, Muḥammad), for (the love of) God, my service: upon you the two salutations of peace of Him (Allah) through whom I glory in you.

119 I have come out of what must be abandoned for God alone, and my pact of sale with Him is a pact that is never dissolved.

120 My going forth, by (the grace of) my Lord, together with you, took place before the year hakasash (1325 H, 1907, by the Maghrebi abjad); and the rebuker turns towards others than me, not towards me.

121 By (the grace of) my Lord, my going forth, together with my entering the abode, erased beforehand every past wavering.

122 To Him also thanksgiving, after everlasting praise, for the Chosen One (Muḥammad), the best of creatures, the favoured.

123 For my Lord, the Most High, I have become a servant addressing him (Muḥammad) whose excellence is manifest to anyone of intellect.

124 (The verse) "There has certainly come to you (a Messenger)" (Qur'an 9:128) has come to us praising you, from God, Lord of the Mighty Throne, who bestows excellence.

125 In the Qur'an has come what shows us your precedence, from Him (Allah) who grants the perfect gift.

126 You are the one to whom, from pre-eternity, Prophethood was given, while Adam was still between water and clay, about to come forth.

127 Each of the elect has excellence and rank; but with the Most High no servant is like the son of ʿAbd Allāh (Muḥammad).

128 Each of the masters has standing and sanctity; but the rank of the Chosen One (Muḥammad), the Righteous, rises above all.

129 If the Messengers who preceded you came with wondrous signs, they obtained them through you, from Him (Allah) who bestows grace.

130 To the Lord of the Throne I have surrendered my whole being, by your rank; and my provision for His Gardens is the best of the revealed (Books) (the Qur'an).

131 For you I have asked my Lord for His two salutations of peace, forever, together with the Family and the Companions, O best of those sent.

132 To my Lord, who by your rank has made the enemies yield to me, goes my thanksgiving after praise, without any wavering.

133 My need has turned to Him (Allah) who splits what was joined (Fāṭiq ar-ratq); truly I am His servant, and He has granted me emancipation.

134 My pens bear a debt of gratitude to Him, for my parting — without having to meet them — from the people of injustice and depravity.

135 The hatred of those who associate (others with God) has led to me all I hoped for; and truly I am full of gratitude for that separation.

136 The hearts of the aggressors have been driven towards others than us, like their bodies; and God preserves my dwelling for me.

137 I have sought to give thanks to God with a pure thanksgiving, addressing the best of creatures, in form and in character.

138 You came foremost, because the Exalted (Allah) placed you first, O our Messenger, and you attained sublimity, O you who uphold the Truth by truth.

139 God has sent down for you verses that have driven (every enemy) towards others, save those He has chosen for me among the creatures.

140 With them I have overcome the people of hatred, and they are a shield: through them the Everlasting has guarded me and raised my horizon.

141 Their recitation is my treasure, my standing and my strength; through them it has been granted me to be, with God, a man of truthfulness.

142 Through them I have drawn near to Him who revealed them, He who through them was with me; and I have pleased Him with thanksgiving, in deed and in word.

143 Through them my eye has been cooled and my soul made serene; through them I have reached God, He who splits and who joins.

144 God has fulfilled my needs through him (Muḥammad) who brought them to us; and through them I am servant and Servant (Khadīm), together with freedom.

PARTIE 4

Muqadamatul Amdah 4

145 I have known — and I, through (divine) outpourings, bring forth new works — that the Originator (Al-Badīʿ) restrains, at all times, the abject one (al-ajdaʿ).

146 I have known with certainty that the Lord of the Throne has power over all things, and that He is for me, at all times, the refuge.

147 In Him I place my reliance, seeking the intercession of the Prophet: upon him God's blessing — how excellent an intercessor whose intercession is accepted!

148 Upon you, from the Lord, the Most High, His peace, together with your company, O you who intercede among creatures.

149 My hardship, by God's leave, you have erased from me, just as He has led to me what I hoped and longed for.

150 Upon you the two salutations of peace of Him (Allah) who has guided and guarded me, for you are a creature excelling all the illustrious.

151 You are known as intercessor, saviour, bringer of succour: through you God has led to me what benefits at all times.

152 My sciences and my spiritual knowledge, through you God has led them to me: for you are the Chosen One, the noble Chief.

153 It is incumbent upon me, for the Face of God — sublime is His majesty —, to offer you at all times eulogies that exalt your merits.

154 My faults were once many, but you have erased them; and I used to entreat the Most High through the Effacer (Al-Māḥī).

155 I have pardoned all the enemies, for the Face of Him (Allah) who has driven them forever towards others than me: it is not I who repel them.

156 I have known with certainty that my Lord was with me, and that the one who came last (Al-Muqaffā, Muḥammad) repels whoever hates me.

157 My shelters a Protector who scatters (the enemies) has made pure: towards others than me, without any encounter, the enemies have scattered.

158 Once I raised a loud cry amid the enemies, striving, addressing Him (Allah) who forcefully drove the enemies away from me.

159 The appearance of the Messenger of God (Muḥammad) has led wishes to me, and he scattered every evil from me.

160 I have triumphed, and of the (divine) blessings I make mention, for I am the Servant (Khadīm) of the Chosen One (Muḥammad), and he guards.

161 I thirsted and came to the Sea (of grace), while I was upon the sea, as Servant of him (Muḥammad) whose words have put the ruby to shame.

162 My darkness the Chosen One (Muḥammad) once dispelled, and it vanished; by the sea I meet no one whose heart is hardened.

163 My vessels, all together, I once turned towards the Prophet, and each has become filled with what surpasses every wish.

164 I believed I had gathered in purity all that I sought, and my Lord has driven towards others than me what was burdensome.

165 The thirst of whoever heads towards the one who came last (Al-Muqaffā, Muḥammad) is the thirst of one who is given drink and food, and beholds with gladness.

166 The darkness of whoever heads towards the Effacer (Al-Māḥī, Muḥammad) is the darkness of one whose heart is illumined by him, while the rust (of the heart) is scraped away.

167 The presence of the Chosen One's Companions guards me, and towards the enemies there turns, from me, vigilance.

168 My shelters have spread as far as the Gardens of the Everlasting, and my whole being and my possessions a Defender who scatters (the enemies) has guarded.

169 My certainty is my God, and He gives life to my whole being, by the rank of the Messenger of God (Muḥammad), whose Path I revive.

170 My hand, my tongue, together with my heart and my body, my God has protected from all harm, erasing my error.

171 My eulogy spreads all the benefit the Prophet has gathered: he is the Sea, who draws (good) and drives away (evil).

172 In the Prophet's right hand are gifts for whoever asks; upon him the blessing of God, Lord of pardon and of right guidance.

173 In the Prophet's left hand are hidden things (punishments) for whoever assails; upon him the peace of God, who suffices against the oppressors.

174 My whole being dwells beside him, as his Servant, through him: through him I have become near, I who was far.

175 He makes me forever like his Family and his Companions, and has led to me a secret hidden even from the best, (by the grace of) the Giver of life (Allah).

176 The Everlasting (Allah) pours blessing and peace upon him, his Family and his Companions; through him I have attained triumph in the (wondrous) folding of the way (ṭayy).

177 He who frees from toil and from hoarding pours His blessing upon the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār, Muḥammad), upon all his Family and his Companions.

178 There speaks to me what has been led to me: "Praise him!", with a wondrous eulogy, that silences and surpasses all judgement.

179 The tongue of my state says to me: "Be the Servant of him (Muḥammad) who has protected you from troubles, by (the grace of) God, with attentive care."

180 (It is) my certainty, unto the Gardens, that the Everlasting loves me (and keeps from me) His enemies, and that through the Chosen One (Muḥammad) He gives life to my whole being.

181 By (the grace of) my Lord I have been given possession of what puts the wave and the sea to shame, by praising him (Muḥammad) who made me forget the ship's harm, as (one forgets) anguish.

182 My aim and my needs have turned to my Lord, with praise and thanksgiving, and He has been with me, lavishing gifts upon me.

183 My desire is to be servant of my Lord and Servant (Khadīm) of him (Muḥammad) whom I address with gratitude and love, with firm resolve.

184 Your merits, O my all, are manifest to all; but they are too sublime for poetry and verse.

185 The spiritual stations of the best of creatures are veiled (muqayyaba) from any but his Lord: so recite the Sūra of the Star (an-Najm).

186 Muḥammad, the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār): there is no creature like him; upon him the two salutations of peace of Him (Allah) to whom belong command and judgement.

187 Muḥammad, the Renowned, the Effacer and the Giver, singled out with glory, guarded from every stain.

188 He who answers and is answered, the Well-pleasing, destroyer of enemies, who makes (the good) lawful, sent to the Arabs and the non-Arabs.

189 Luminous, he has dispelled our darkness from us, he makes lawful (what is pure), handsome, protected (by God) from people and from delusion.

190 City of knowledge, the Hoped-for, a (divine) grace for us, fearless and saviour from sins and from injustice.

191 God has erased from me, through the Prophet, all corruption, and through him I have become servant and Servant (Khadīm), without anguish.

192 From God, Lord of the Throne, I implore His blessing, together with His peace, for the Chosen One (Muḥammad), who puts the sea to shame (by his generosity).
