PARTIE 1

Rumna Shukur 1

1. We have sought gratitude (toward) Him Who by the Kāf and the Nūn ("Kun", Be) does what He wills, of the manifest and the hidden,

2. (namely) Allah — exalted be He —: He is the All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān), All-Powerful, and He is the Most Merciful (Ar-Raḥīm), my refuge, and He enriches me.

3. Through Him I have become free of (false) lords forever, and I hope from Him an unfailing reward (Qur'ān 41:8).

4. To Him I have already repented, having made a sale (of the soul), and He has removed me from the prohibitions and from the deeds of a madman.

5. I have turned my face to Him with remembrance, possessed of services to the one who brought us the obligatory and the Sunna.

6 I have adorned the qaṣīdas for the Bestower (Al-Wahhāb), thanking Him with them, and He drove to me what surpassed expectation.

7 With a Beneficent, Powerful, Kind One I am well pleased here, and He has bestowed on me from Himself a precious, treasured (gift).

8 I conversed with Him intimately seeking succour, and He is generous; and before He saved the one of the valley (Moses) and the one of the fish (Jonah).

9 O Allah, O Living (Al-Ḥayy), O Self-Subsisting (Al-Qayyūm), take me by the hand, and guard my side with a secret from You, hidden.

10 You are the Guardian (Al-Ḥafīẓ) Whose protection I seek: so spare me every creature that makes me suffer.

11 I conversed with You intimately today, O You Who have been generosity for me, O Enricher Whose bounty makes me forget my trial.

12 You are the Generous Who gives without cause, O Best Healer Who healed all of me with betterment.

13 You healed me this year: so accept that with which I thanked You, when the Nūn before the Fā' and the Sīn (nafs, the soul) became good.

14 You spared me all the enemies, O my King, O You Who protect me from disgrace and save me.

15 I am well pleased with You with a good pleasure that does not leave me: You have tamed for me the people of Zaqqūm and Sijjīn.

16 You repelled from me those deluded by their carrion (the world), who expelled me like a captive and a prisoner.

17 From me, singly and in pairs, they turned back, and they are deaf, dumb and blind like the devils.

18 You held them back from my side after their onslaught, O Owner of dominion, O Lord of the sultans.

19 You repel them forever from harming me, and You give me victory through them over them, and beyond the request You give me.

20 I wrote at sea that I do not stretch out my hand to the Christians, slaves of water and clay,

21 if He wills it, He through Whom I seek repose, through Him, in this world and the Next, with rectification and settlement.

22 To Allah — exalted be He — (belong) my hand and the heart with my body; and He drove to me what is beyond what the petty sultans have.

23 He tamed my enemies for me at sea, and they bound themselves to me; and all, in what has passed, used to give me (what I asked).

24 My turning is toward Him to Whom, whenever I complain, He removes the complaint, and has led to me what I love by bringing it into being.

25 He leads to me all that I love without cause — how generous He is! — and with the best gratitude He gives me life.

26 He gave me refuge and protected me from my enemies together, and from a rebellious, accursed one (Satan) who almost led me astray.

27 What an excellent Guardian, He Whose protection whenever I sought, He protected me and spared me my adversary by softening him!

28 From me He dispelled darknesses that held me back, and with guidance He bestowed on me, truly, with clarity.

29 He effaced my faults that used to shake me, and for me He appoints good with every appointing.

30 My heart has turned with gratitude toward Him, with the service of the Chosen; and longing scorches me.

31 He has blessed him with peace, with all his (Family), and bestowed on me from Himself an honour with a stored (treasure).

32 Grant me, by Your being the Bestower, my wishes together, O Best Giver, with the giving of treasuries.

33 O Allah, O Kind (Al-Barr), O All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān), drive my aim to me as long as I live, without earning, not saddened.

34 O Best, Kind, Merciful One, grant this servant of Yours that he not be reckoned with on the day of the scales.

35 Turn generosity toward my mother and my father, and reward them on my behalf with good, with honour.

36 Bless the Prophet with peace, with the ḥanīfs, O You Who spared me an enemy who almost disgraced me.

37 To You be praise, good pleasure and gratitude forever, O Best Lord, Nurturer Who makes me ascend.

38 I complain to You of what is hidden in the heart: complete my wish with mastery and instruction.

39 Turn toward me what I hope for without burdens, and hold back from me the wicked who meet me.

40 You are the All-Powerful (Al-Qadīr) Whom nothing can render powerless: so tame with Your might for me all the magnates (dahāqīn).

41 Tame for me with Your might those who made the Eternal Refuge (Aṣ-Ṣamad) a trinity, deaf, dumb and blind like madmen.

42 I have called upon You today, O Subduer (Al-Qahhār), O my King, O You for Whom my gratitude and love consume me.

43 O Best Enricher, Rich, Who has no partner in dominion and praise, Who saves me and enriches me.

44 O Owner of dominion, O You Who are exalted above having a child, tame for me all the people of Easter and Palm Sunday (the Christians).

45 Turn toward me today secrets that stay with me, and spare me everything that may afflict me.

46 Answer my supplication with what has surpassed expectations, here, O Enricher Whose bounty brings a precious (gift).

PARTIE 2

Rumna Shukur 2

47 I was saved from the trials of the enemies when they aimed at me with cannons, all of them, and with knives.

48 I turned penitent to You when they confronted me with harm, and You tamed them all for me like the destitute.

49 Bless the Prophet with peace, with the noble, and host Your guest, possessed of return, with calm.

50 Lengthen life with the deeds that please You, and give life to my heart with certainty and firmness.

51 To You is my turning with the Qur’ān that I recite slowly, and with the praise of a Messenger from You, trustworthy.

52 The blessing of a Kind, Merciful One, with peace together, upon him who spared us all conjecture,

53 the highest of creation with Allah in rank, Muḥammad, he who came with gladness and safety.

54 To Allah I have turned, and the Chosen is my intermediary, and I hope my leanness may attain the best fattening.

55 My need with Allah, through the Chosen, has already been met; may He bless him with His peace. Āmīn.

56 If I have a need, or if I have fear, I converse with Him intimately, and He enriches me and protects me.

57 My turning is toward Him Who raises the station without making (the gaze) roam toward the lands of Syria and China.

58 A Lord Who bestows the folding (of the path), Who can spare burdens, as He saves without sword and without fortification.

59 I have been the guest of the Generous Who hosts with "Be"; and to Him be my praise and my gratitude, and He raises me in the two Abodes.

60 Truly I am the guest of the Knower of the unseen, here, and He has tamed for me every adversary who hated me.

61 He is the All-Powerful Who by folding (the path) brings me to my wish, perpetually, at every time.

62 I have turned my face with gratitude to the Generous, and He drives to me a mercy from Himself from now on.

63 I hope, by His gifted mercy, our master (the Prophet), for my visit to his city, the abode of sweet basil.

64 An abode which, whenever a visitor visits it for guidance, he is made happy: it is the abode, the abode of Truth and religion.

65 I have stored up my being the slave of Allah, his servant, and his being for me on the day of Gathering and Judgement.

66 To Allah I have turned through the Chosen, possessed of services, and He has already spared me through him what almost ruined me.

67 I have intended Your gratitude on this day, O my Eternal Refuge, O Allah, Lord of the ʿAyn before the Rā and the Shīn (al-ʿArsh, the Throne).

68 O You Who bring into being what You have willed without cause, bring my wish into being, and tame for me what makes me fear.

69 With the folding and the attraction grant me the request without toil, O Best Enricher, Nurturer Who can set me free.

70 You have nurtured me: so widen for me here and tomorrow, without reckoning, and be for me when You adorn me.

71 You have favoured me with what surpassed my request: so spare me at all times every accursed one.

72 Accept from me, increase my gratitude and increase my succour, and make my gratitude the glad tidings of Your wide-eyed houris.

73 My turning is toward what pleases You of deed and word; and every evil You spare me.

74 You spared me thirst and nakedness with hunger, and with the Book You sent down You heal me.

75 Make the springs of the water of the unseen gush forth in my heart, and protect my tongue from the error of suspicions.

76 O Lord, bless with peace my support, and the Family with his Companions, the high-nosed (noble and proud).

77 Bless him and grant him peace, with all, and lead me to al-Baqīʿ which Ibn Maẓʿūn inaugurated (the first buried there).

78 With the folding (of the path) bestow on me, and tame for me every envious one, contender, pierced by the spear of polytheism.

79 You are the Answerer (Al-Mujīb) Who saved Noah from drowning with a mighty, laden ark from You (Qur'ān 26:119).

80 My masters called upon You before, and You were for them: so answer me, O Answerer of every afflicted one.

81 Bring into being all that I love, forever, with "Be", and tame my enemies for me by training them.

82 Truly I am a slave, a servant; I have become Your guest, O my Lord, and with manumission and release You host me.

83 Be for me with "Be" forever, and make my journey, in the midst of the wilderness, for creation like that of the wandering (saints).

84 I have turned my need to Him Who fulfils everything with "Be", and I seek intercession through the one praised in (the sūra) Nūn (Qur'ān 68:4).

85 the highest of creatures, the most God-fearing of them and the noblest, with Him Who bestowed on me the Mīm and the Nūn.

86 For Him Who clothed me, quenched my thirst and fed me, (goes) my grateful pen, like the Tablet and the Nūn (the pen, Qur'ān 68:1).

87 My love, my affection, my good pleasure and my praise are for Him Who favoured me with what surpassed expectation.

88 O Lord, bless with peace, without number, a bearer of glad tidings, a warner from You, trustworthy,

89 Your Prophet, the Chosen, with the righteous together;
and be with "Be" for me in the manifest and the hidden.
