PARTIE 1

Matlabul Fawzayni 1

1 Praise be to Allah, the Generous, Possessor of favours, for my devotion to the obligations and the traditions (sunan).

2 I have thanked Him because He drove me to a homeland in which He removed what hindered me,

3 and led me to Him by adorning (with virtues), after He had refined me by stripping (of vices),

4 and drew me there toward the sciences, triumph and acting upon what is known.

5 Then a blessing with peace, following, upon him whom it is my aim to follow,

6 upon him for whom whoever follows the example of his will, in secret and in public, becomes an example.

7 He is the one who emigrated to Medina by the command of his Lord, and so preserved his religion:

8 my means of approach to my Sovereign, the Exalted, Muḥammad, the best of creation, the Intercessor,

9 and (upon) his Family and his Companions, the stars, who subdued the souls and the accursed (Satan).

10 That said: truly today, O Bestower (Al-Wahhāb), I fear none but You in the two Abodes.

11 And truly I, O Kind (Al-Barr), O Generous, am a supplicant, and from gratitude I never depart, 12 ever since You drew me to You, O Helper, out of a care from You toward me, to help (me).

13 And I rose, drawn toward You by You, through You, (relying) on You, and I was well pleased with You,

14 entrusting and surrendering to You my affair, emigrating toward what is with You.

15 Then toward You, not toward any other than You, I journeyed, since I found none like You.

16 And You have bestowed on me today the best of favours, and led me to follow the traditions (of the Prophet),

17 after the praise of people had almost made me enter the snare of the Whisperer (Qur'ān 114:4),

18 and for praises and eulogies I almost lost interest in composing and in teaching recitation,

19 in learning and in teaching, and in devoting myself to the guidance of knowledge.

20 So I said, with gratitude and seeking means through the Chosen, the Intercessor, the very essence of the Messengers,

21 and through his sons and his daughters together, that they may intercede for me swiftly, all of them:

22 "O Kind, O Forgiving, O Forbearing (Al-Ḥalīm), I am an untried one, repentant, blameworthy.

23 O Kind, O All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān), O Trustee (Al-Wakīl), I am lazy, a sleeper, a glutton.

24 O my Sovereign, O Creator of mankind, put my passion to death, lessen my sleep.

25 O my Creator, O Perfect in attributes, to You I have complained of the multitude of (my) afflictions.

26 And You are the Possessor of Majesty and Bounty (Qur'ān 55:27): save me and grant me my aim.

27 From You I long today to be among those who refused to lean on any other than You,

28 and to obey You by the way of the Chosen, his radiant Sunna, O You Who chose (him).

29 O Forgiver of sins, O Near (Al-Qarīb), I am a lowly servant, a stranger here.

30 Grant me, through that one (the Prophet), and all my brothers, the felicity of the two Abodes, truly, O All-Hearing (As-Samī').

31 Grant me in this supplication the answering, through the Chosen, the Family and the Companions.

32 Grant me the best share in the apportionings, and (grant it) to the people of religion, by the standing of al-Qāsim.

33 And dispel for me the pitch-black night of passion, by the sanctity of the beloved Ibrāhīm.

34 And drive to me the best lawful and wholesome provision and the best neighbours, by the right of aṭ-Ṭayyib.

35 And purify me inwardly and outwardly, and through me have mercy on creation, by the right of aṭ-Ṭāhir.

36 And raise me with a hidden raising, by his daughter Ruqayya, the pure.

37 And spare from my harm the near and the stranger, the Muslim and the unbeliever, by Zaynab.

38 And turn toward me with good and safety, by Umm Kulthūm, until the Resurrection.

39 And bestow on me, Lord, a good ending, here and in my tomorrow, by the standing of Fāṭima.

40 Bless their father, the Family and his Companions, and answer my request for me.

41 And be my intimate companion, and protect me from harm, and save me from delusion and peril.

42 And save, Lord, me and the people of my house, here and tomorrow, from troubles.

43 And save me and the Muslims from affliction, and protect my body in my grave from decay.

44 O our Lord, O our Lord, O our Lord, O our Lord, O our Lord, O our Beloved!

45 Grant me, by the standing of him who is the Chosen (al-Mukhtār), in this world and the Next, the best of what I choose.

46 And set a veil between us and every harm, and keep ruin away from us.

47 O Allah, O Helper (An-Naṣīr), O Majestic (Al-Jalīl), I am lowly, destitute, abased.

48 So make me free of need through You, and grant me my need, through him who rose above all non-Arabs and Arabs:

49 our master Muḥammad, the gate of success, my means of approach to You in attaining righteousness.

50 And bless and grant peace upon him and upon everyone who has attached himself to him.

51 And forgive my sins and accept my deeds, and grant me the best of wishes and hopes.

52 O You Who are above place and accident, I dwell here and in me is an illness:

53 so be my intimate companion and heal me of sickness, until I walk the best road.

54 O Just (Al-ʿAdl), O Abaser (Al-Mudhill), O You Who give security: You are my protector here, O Giver of security (Al-Muʾmin).

55 And forever be my securer, O Possessor of Majesty, from every evil, punishment and error.

56 O You Who are above (having) a wife or a child, encompass me and encompass all the people of this land.

57 And make, O my God, my dwelling Ṭūbā (Touba) forever like its name (the tree of Paradise), by the standing of the best of worshippers.

58 And bless him with the most excellent blessing, and his Family and his Companions, possessors of (true) bonds.

PARTIE 2

Matlabul Fawzayni 2

59 And whoever has served me or visited, save him and forgive him his sins.

60 And whoever has loved me or inclined toward me, grant him guidance and wealth.

61 And whoever has insulted or blamed me, grant him repentance and submission.

62 And whoever has thought ill of me, turn his heart in my favour, O my Lord.

63 And spare me the harm of all the worlds, and spare them (my) harm, O Lord, Āmīn.

64 And make my building a building of well-being, that draws me toward pure good things.

65 And make my building a building of knowledge, and of acting by the Sunna, and of forbearance.

66 And make my building a building of right guidance, and keep from me the plotting of every aggressor.

67 And spare me forever the harm of Satan and his party, the oppressors in the lands.

68 And keep from me every person who does not seek Your Countenance: turn him away swiftly when he comes.

69 And swiftly turn away all that corrupts from my hand and from my house, wherever it appears.

70 And bring what sets right into my hand and into my house, and make it firm through the Guide, the Faithful.

71 And raise me, and raise whoever helps me, and spare me all that abases me.

72 And keep my dwelling safe from the wicked, and favour the people with flowing water.

73 And make it, Lord, hastened favours (here) drawing deferred favours (hereafter).

74 O Living (Al-Ḥayy), O Self-Subsisting (Al-Qayyūm), be the One Who answers me: You are the Answerer, the Generous, the Watchful (Ar-Raqīb).

75 To You alone I have fled from all other than You (cf. Qur'ān 51:50): so be for that my leader to Your guidance.

76 And be for me Lord, Protector and Helper, and for all the Muslims, O All-Seeing (Al-Baṣīr).

77 And multiply the good things of this land and its provision, and spare it misfortune.

78 And establish in it a community that performs the five prayers constantly, O Wise (Al-Ḥakīm).

79 And save us from the evil of this age and the evil of others, and from every trial.

80 And spare us the evil of the Christians and the Jews, and the evil of Iblīs and of every denier,

81 of the jinn, the Antichrist (ad-Dajjāl), the Blacks, in the East and the West, and the Bīḍān (Moors),

82 and from the evil of all that is on earth and in the sky, of the manifest and the inward that has hidden itself.

83 O Subtle, O Generous, O Majestic: deal with all of us with Your beautiful kindness.

84 And lead all of us to salvation and success, and grant us success in what is right and in righteousness.

85 And make us eager to do what You have loved, and spare us doing what You have hated.

86 And never try any of us with what he cannot bear, O Eternal Refuge (Aṣ-Ṣamad).

87 And grant us ease and success in both Abodes, and achievement,

88 by the standing of this day and the standing of him who was born on it: we sought his like and did not find (it),

89 Muḥammad, the most excellent of Allah's creatures, without hesitation or doubt.

90 Upon him bless forever with the best blessing, by which we accompany the chosen and the trustworthy.

91 And grant us to take what he brought us and to leave what he forbade us to do (cf. Qur’ān 59:7), 92 until each of us is, in movements and in stillnesses, a follower of the Sunna.

93 And save us, by his standing, from false claims, and keep lying and idle play away from us.

94 And spare us passion and what does not concern us, and through You make us always free of need, O Enricher (Al-Mughnī).

95 O Allah, Your hoped-for forgiveness is vaster than the terrifying sins of a disobedient one.

96 O Kind, Your mercy is more hoped-for by us than any deed we earn: so forgive us,

97 and (forgive) all the Muslims together, and the Muslim women all, at every moment.

98 And do not take us to task for ill manners, and for audacity and much play.

99 For truly we, even if we have dared, hope in none but You: be for us, out of grace.

100 And do not take us to task for much excess, outwardly and inwardly, and for heedlessness.

101 And be our refuge from pestilence and from all that descends from the sky,

102 and from all that circles on the earth and what is between them, O Lord of the sky.

103 And draw our hearts, with our limbs, toward piety and the fear of Allah, by the standing of the sincere Counsellor.

104 And bless with the purest blessing, that repels pestilence from us (and) guards against locusts,

105 him and the Family, with the most excellent peace, and his Companions; and encompass my dwelling, O Peace (As-Salām).

106 And purify my soul and increase me in knowledge (Qur'ān 20:114), that lifts worry from me in the two Abodes.

107 And purify my heart and increase me in modesty, and make me live in obedience, O my Lord.

108 And make my right hand like a cloud in generosity, blessed in hardship and in ease.

109 O Allah, O Bestower, O Highest Companion: make me travel today the most profitable road,

110 by the sanctity of the accepted Intercessor, the Brought-Near, of the Family, the Companions and the month of Rajab.

111 Bestow on me precedence and truthful affirmation, by the sanctity of the Foremost, the Truthful (Abū Bakr aṣ-Ṣiddīq).

112 And bestow on me truth and enabling grace, by the sanctity of the Enabled, the Discerner (ʿUmar al-Fārūq).

113 And grant me the felicity of the two Abodes, by the right of ʿUthmān, possessor of the two Lights (Dhū n-Nūrayn).

114 Then, by the sanctity of our Imam ʿAlī, grant me in the two Abodes a renown that rises high.

115 O our Lord, O our Lord, O our Lord, O our Lord, O our Lord: accept our verses,

116 by the sanctity of al-Ḥasan and al-Ḥusayn, together with the sanctity of everyone who joined the Companions.

PARTIE 3

Matlabul Fawzayni 3

117 and by the sanctity of (his) sons and (his) daughters, and by the sanctity of the Family together with the wives,

118 and by the sanctity of the Messengers and the Prophets, of the learned together with the saints,

119 and by the sanctity of the radiant, noble angels, and by the sanctity of the Kaʿba, Your sacred House,

120 and by the sanctity of the mighty Holy House (Jerusalem), and by the city of Your noble Messenger (Medina),

121 and by Your Frequented House (Qurʾān 52:4), O Lord, and the angels who visit it above the sky,

122 and by the standing of everyone possessed of guidance, whether righteous, or spiritual guide, or worshipper, or sincere counsellor,

123 and by the standing of everyone who is attributed to You: grant me all that I ask of You.

124 And swiftly spare me all that I seek refuge from in You, O Giver of refuge.

125 And join, here, me and what drives me toward You, wherever it is known;

126 and all that hinders from You, O Originator (Al-Badīʿ), separate it swiftly from me.

127 I am the one who has submitted his face here to You, resolved to do good;

128 I am the one who never inclines toward any other than You, here and then tomorrow.

129 And why not, when You are my Lord, the Trustee, and You suffice me, so I do not incline (elsewhere)?

130 O Kind, You are my Lord, the Bestower, and of Your (spiritual) openings I have no doubt.

131 O Kind, You are my Lord, the Reckoner (Al-Ḥasīb), and You suffice me, so I am not disappointed.

132 O Just, You are my Lord, the Defender, and You suffice me, so I do not defend (myself).

133 O Living, You are the Possessor of Majesty, the All-Embracing (Al-Wāsiʿ), and You suffice me, so I do not contend.

134 O Lord, You are the Possessor of might (Qurʾān 13:13), the One, and You suffice me, so I do not suffer.

135 O Singular, You are the Possessor of gifts, O Glorious (Al-Mājid), and You suffice me, so I do not envy.

136 My Master, You are the Possessor of guidance, O Benefiter (An-Nāfiʿ), and You suffice me, so I do not sever (ties).

137 You are the One Who grants Your guidance to those who love You, and You suffice me, so I seek none but You.

138 So protect my precinct; be for me an impregnable fortress against every creature with fangs and claws, at every moment.

139 And spare me, O Possessor of Permanence and Eternity, the harm of whoever has walked toward me on foot,

140 and from the evil of whoever rides armed, and the evil of what flies with wings,

141 and from the evil of whoever sits (plotting) with words, and the evil of whoever lies down and whoever stands,

142 and from the evil of those who blow on knots (Qur'ān 113:4), and the evil of the envier and the denier.

143 Through You, O my God, I have bound (made harmless) the lion, the snake, the scorpion and the black viper,

144 the knot-tier, the blower, the thief, the caster of the evil eye, the sorcerer and the night-comer,

145 and men and jinn together, (keeping them) from me and from all who have submitted (to Islām) in what is open,

146 with a thousand thousand utterances of "There is no strength nor power save in God, Possessor of Loftiness".

147 And save me from the evil of the dwellers of the land, and the evil of every begetter and what he begot (Qur'ān 90:3).

148 And spare me the evil of the mouth and the eye, and of whoever has targeted me for ruin.

149 And save me from the wrong of every wrongdoer, and the evil of every ignorant and learned one,

150 of every silent one and every speaker, every renegade and every night-visitor,

151 of every vilest and every excellent one, every dominator and every assailant,

152 of every flier and every walker, every obscure and every renowned one,

153 of every envier and every hater, every tyrant and every criminal.

154 And save me, O You Who are exalted, O Glorious (Al-Majīd), from the evil of the jinn together with rebellious Satan, 155 from the evil of the near and the evil of the far, of heat and of cold, and the evil of water.

156 And make me a master and support me forever, and purify the heart and make the body sound.

157 And grant me standing (in prayer) in the nights and fasting in the day, with completeness.

158 And strip me of vices, and be the One Who adorns me with virtues.

159 And sharpen my mind, and open for me, Lord, a manifest opening (Qur'ān 48:1), such as is not seen for one like me.

160 And grant me skill and light, and on the Bridge (aṣ-Ṣirāṭ) make the crossing easy.

161 And grant me remembrance (of You) with gratitude at every moment, and count me among the Brought-Near.

162 And never cease, O my Sovereign, to be my guide; and refine me and be my close friend.

163 And teach me a knowledge from Your presence (Qur'ān 18:65), until I become firmly grounded, (vast as) an ocean.

164 And be my help against Satan, the self and creation, for the length of the ages.

165 And be for me, in the two Abodes, a refuge, and in them never cease to be my shelter.

166 And purify me in form and in heart, and grant me elevation and love.

167 And be my Patron in life and at my death, in the grave and at the Gathering (of the Resurrection), tomorrow.

168 And never cease, O Preserver (Al-Ḥafīẓ), to be for me protector, preserver, screen and well-pleased (with me),

169 drawing (to You), guide, teacher, leader to right guidance, honouring,

170 guide, helper, and the One Who gifts all that benefits me, possessed of kindness.

171 And make me travel the paths of deliverance, and spare me all sins.

172 And make me travel, Lord, the path of the saints, noble, sincere, chosen.

173 And bestow on me a felicity after which I see no misery or harm.

174 And make firm Your love in my heart, and the love of the best of creation, persistently,

175 and the love of his Family and all his Companions, then the love of every obedient Muslim.

176 O our Lord, O Possessor of gifts, answer my seeking of means through the Chosen, the elect;

177 then bless him with the best blessing, that leads me to meeting the guides.

178 And make me eager for the love of every Muslim, and save me from the evil of every criminal.

179 And make me eager for acts of obedience, and spare me sins and all trials.

PARTIE 4

Matlabul Fawzayni 4

180 And drive out the others (all but You) from my heart, and bring the lights into it, O my Guide.

181 And be my help in what sets right, and spare me all that makes foul.

182 And show me the subtleties of the secrets of Your beneficial knowledge and of the lights.

183 And grant me certainty and gnosis, (spiritual) taste, forgiveness and good pleasure, 184 and steadfastness in worship, unveiling, direct vision and felicity.

185 And set right the community of the best of Messengers, and relieve them all, O Most High (Al-ʿAlī).

186 And have mercy, bless, then grant well-being to them all, and save them, be gentle with them and forgive them.

187 And make me, O Lord, among the greatest of servants with You, in fortune and share, in perpetuity.

188 And make all my movements for You, and my stillnesses obedience, by Your grace.

189 And make my life and my death within the traditions, the obligatory and the recommended, in secret and in public.

190 And make my death a rest for me from toil, from heartache, from love's anguish and from suffering.

191 And make all my deeds accepted, until I become an accepted example.

192 And make my dwelling a blessed dwelling, and make me a wayfarer and a devotee.

193 I call on You to make it an abode of the fear of Allah, of knowledge and religion, and an abode of ascent,

194 a garden (janna) for the aspiring wayfarer (murīd) and a shield (junna) against the rending rebel (marīd),

195 a place of benefit for every Muslim guide, and a place of defence against every criminal aggressor,

196 a pilgrimage for whoever is clothed in weakness, and a screen against the opponent, tomorrow,

197 a place of seeking obedience to the Merciful (Ar-Raḥīm), and a place of flight from obedience to the accursed (ar-Rajīm),

198 a path for the ways of following (the Sunna), and a place of leaving the ways of innovation,

199 a dwelling to draw every good, and a dwelling to repel every harm,

200 a cause for the opening of the good of the Unseen, and a cause for repelling the harm of defect.

201 And make its land a land of provision and security, of mercy and plenty, at every time.

202 O Repeller of evils and troubles, through the Chosen repel every evil from my house.

203 And forgive those who built its lofty building, and forgive him who commanded them in it, all of them.

204 And (forgive) all who helped them in its building, which by Your grace has risen high.

205 And forgive everyone who has dwelt in it, and whoever has leaned on it for good.

206 And make it full of light and mercy, without end.

207 And make its provision the purest of the lawful, in hardship and in ease, continuously.

208 And bestow on me in it a knowledge that benefits and elevation of renown, with a humble heart.

209 And grant me in it a supplication that is heard, with the contentment of a soul that is satisfied,

210 and a righteous wife who helps (me) toward the fear of Allah and piety, O Helper.

211 And spread forever the wing of Your veil over me, with all my family, O Eternal Refuge.

212 And pitch the pavilions of Your guarding over my house and all that is in it, entirely.

213 And bring all into the hidden depth of Your Unseen, and veil us from temptations,

214 from the wicked of creation and from calamities, from the jinn, Satan and trials.

215 And grant me long life with the fear of Allah and light, renunciation and scruple, through the ages.

216 And make my dwelling a dwelling of forgiveness, right direction, gnosis and good pleasure,

217 an abode of sincerity, truthfulness and scruple, an abode of the Sunna and a refuge from innovations.

218 And make it always a dwelling of learning, a place of reflection and understanding,

219 a dwelling of spiritual guidance and teaching, a dwelling of correction and of imparting understanding.

220 And make it a dwelling of going out from darknesses into light, and keep from it whoever has done wrong.

221 And make it always a dwelling of following the Sunna, not a dwelling of innovation.

222 And make it, O Lord, the most beloved dwelling in our land, to You and to al-Māḥī, the radiant.

223 And protect my house from depravity, wickedness and falsehood, through the ages.

224 And remove pestilence and all trials from it, and make its drink and its food wholesome.

225 And make our sacred precinct a safe precinct, and be the guarantor and surety of its keeping.

226 And gather good for it from the six directions, and spare it calamities.

227 Guard me from Satan, O Majestic, and my dwelling and all those I provide for.

228 O Allah, O Preserver, O Possessor of Command, O You Who surpass all creation together in dominion:

229 my soul and my religion, then my family and children, and my dwelling are a trust with You forever;

230 and so too my worldly life with my Hereafter: in both turn calamities away from me.

231 And turn the punishment of the Fire away from all those who have attached themselves to me among the children of this age, 232 and from all the brothers, whether kin in clay (blood) or in religion, and strangers.

233 So be a fortress for me and always, O Eternal Refuge, take charge of me and entrust me to no one.

234 And have mercy on all the Muslims forever, and bless and grant peace perpetually

235 upon Muḥammad, my means of approach to You, and grant me a good ending with You.

236 And extend the blessing to the Companions, besides his Family, and grant me the answering.
