PARTIE 1

Mawahibu 1

1. In the name of the Divinity (Allah) my gift grows, without limit or end.

2. Praise to my Lord, the best of those who nurture, who has restored my heart through following the example (of the Prophet).

3. To Him my thanksgiving, without ingratitude; He is my Helper, and from Him comes my ransom.

4. To Him my drawing near, without estrangement; to Him my words are addressed, together with my right guidance.

5. Yours my contentment, Yours my praise, Yours my seeking refuge, together with my asking for Your gifts.

6. O You who have healed me, O You who have shielded me from whoever treated me harshly, by erasing every ill!

7. Let down Your veils over me, set my affairs in order, multiply my blessings, without toil.

8 O You who have answered whoever answered You, grant me a response in this call.

9 O Lord of Beauty, O Lord of Majesty, O Best of Protectors, make my gift pure.

10 O Lord of Oneness, O Lord of Existence, be with me in generosity, without end.

11 Make pure my arrival (at You), without heedlessness on my part; grant me generously what I ask, and adorn my mantle with beauty.

12 Grant me recitation (of the Qur'an) with its sweetness, grant me understanding at the moment I perform it.

13 You have set my state aright without my having to depart; through me guide my family, without tears.

14 Accept my repentance and protect my person, preserve my return (to You) and perfect my intelligence.

15 Keep me from the Deceiver (Satan) and erase the delusions; grant me a victorious help, with firm support.

16 Lead to me a gift that increases perfection, O You who are exalted above all partners.

17 You have increased my right guidance, You have led Your gifts to me, to my full contentment, without any complaint.

18 O Best of those who enrich, who have enriched me by pure favour: Him I praise, without excess.

19 Yours my thanksgiving in my dwellings, O Lord of the palaces (of Paradise), without exile.

20 O You who have clothed me, O You who have given me drink, O You who have shielded me from desolation!

21 You are my spring, You are my pillar: illumine my heart, O Lord of Light.

22 You have removed my fault, dispelled my doubt, purified my inmost being like that of the pure elect.

23 You have brought my journey to completion, made my provision good: be with me in goodness, as with the God-fearing.

24 O Best of those who give life, be with me in Your care and with excellent striving, as with the discerning.

25 Grant me uprightness, keep me from blame, grant me honour, by him (Muḥammad) who bears the Banner (of Praise),

26 by the possessor of beauty, by the possessor of perfection, by the possessor of the heights, by the possessor of the remedy,

27 by him devoted to worship, by him who dispenses benefit, by the wonders that break the ordinary (granted) to the Saints,

28 by the giver of gifts, the lion of battle, who fells the wretched men,

29 by him who has the Companions, people of answered prayer, dispeller of sorrow, people of light,

30 by him of the battles, dispeller of anguish, light of the wise, effacer of ostentation.

31 He (Muḥammad) is the Illuminating (Al-Munīr), he is the Bearer of glad tidings (Al-Bashīr): to him I point with this praise.

32 To him my words are addressed, without reproach, without veil and without hardship.

33 O best of creatures, O possessor of virtues, O possessor of gifts, make my edifice pure.

34 You (O Prophet) are my joy, without delusion: make pure my piety, illumine my dwelling.

35 Of you I speak, and I do not lament; to you I return, without fading away.

36 May the Lord who guided you requite you on my behalf, beyond your wishes, on the Day of Requital.

37 May my Lord requite you, O best of beloveds, best of those who are loved, without any loss.

38 Truly I am the Servant (Khadīm), wherever I abide, and I do not depart from this contentment.

39 You are my protector from the Deceiver (Satan) and from the delusions of the one who calls to wretchedness.

40 You have guarded my place, increased my hopes: grant me my time, by Him (Allah) who possesses Permanence.

41 You (Muḥammad) are my path to the King (Allah), you who erase falsehoods and bestow purity.

42 You are the Beautiful, towards you I incline; you are the Messenger, who asks no wage.

43 Yours my tongue together with my heart; and I do not approach you as the poets (of this world) do.

44 You are the Way: through you one reaches Him (Allah) who grants the most precious of riches.

45 You have removed my nakedness, removed my straying, perfected my judgement like that of the great.

46 O best of mankind, to you my pens are devoted, without blame, but in full contentment.

47 O possessor of beauty, O possessor of virtue, you are the Means (Al-Wasīla) to Him (Allah) who holds the Decree.

48 In you is my trusting repose in the All-Firm (Al-Matīn), without temptation and without end.

49 O best of servants, gateway of benefactions, light of the lands, my loftiest hope!

50 You have removed my anguish, erased my wrongdoing: grant me a knowledge that calls to salvation.

51 You have removed my poverty, kept my secret for me, without guile or satire.

52 You have purified my soul, undone my captivity, dispelled my confusion, driven the veil away from me.

53 You have guarded my every horizon, increased my gifts, preserved my being together with the favours.

54 To you is my return with my multitudes, without hunger and without error.

55 Towards you I turn, O possessor of gifts, after my prayer of blessing, together with praise.

56 With you I am content, in you I have forgotten (all else), just as I have been freed from hardship.

Mawahibu 2

57 Yours my eulogy, O possessor of righteousness, O possessor of success, O possessor of abundance.

58 In you I call all the lands to the Lord of the servants, He (Allah) who raised the canopy of heaven.

59 In you I have erased what I had committed; in you I have sought the most fruitful increase.

60 In you my going, in you my returning, without estrangement: to you is my belonging.

61 You have removed my fault, surrounded my person with care, without sorrow and without vanity.

62 O best of effacers (Al-Māḥī), who erased my fault, together with the jesting of the days of youth.

63 You are my Beloved, O you whose love is within me, without faults and without bondage.

64 O best of those who heed, O best of shepherds, O best of those who call to the Lord of heaven!

65 May (God) send blessing upon you, together with those who are with you, and praise you in the hour of battle.

66 May He (Allah) who through you exalted the people of the turban pour upon you unceasingly peace and honour.

67 Through you I guide, through you I bring benefit, O you who surpass those who have been chosen,

68 (over) the people of intellect, on the path of the Messenger, effacer of heedlessness, effacer of concealment,

69 (over) the people of discernment, by him who possesses splendour, effacer of error, effacer of harshness.

70 He (Muḥammad) is the Obeyed, he is the Valiant: through him those who refuse are struck with awe.

71 He is the Friend (of God), he is the Confidant, he is the Pure Chosen One (Aṣ-Ṣafī), possessor of election.

72 He is the Noble in rank, he is the Noble in lineage, he is the Wondrous, manifest in his gifts.

73 He is the Precious: do not compare him (to anyone)! He is the Chief of the Prophets.

74 Sun of suns, head of heads, the best of intimate companions for the Saints.

75 Healing of hearts, light of the dwellings, full moon of full moons, manifest in his radiance.

76 Beneficent rain for the grateful, a lion to the ungrateful, repeller of the averse, showing aversion (to evil).

77 Gardens (of Paradise) for the guided, fires for the transgressor: his excellence is manifest to the wise.

78 He erases sins, makes gifts manifest, guides the creatures, without excess.

79 His is excellence, his the Intercession (ash-shafāʿa), his the Community; he encompasses every ascent.

80 If one, seeking to meet him, desires knowledge, or desires gain, or desires wrongdoing,

81 the first is guided, the second receives his gifts, and the third is cast to ruin, in wretchedness.

82 Guide and protector, illuminating light, rain bearing glad tidings, for whoever accepts guidance.

83 Defender and helper, far-sighted caller, a warning lion, for whoever transgresses.

84 He heeds the complaint of the complainer, he is joy for the weeping, he lends his ear to whoever speaks and whoever calls.

85 Saviour of the wayfarer on the Path, refuge of the ascetic, dispeller of darkness from the God-fearing.

86 Spoil of the poor, mender of the broken, renown of the lowly, for whoever seeks protection.

87 He (Muḥammad) is the Manifest, he is the Hidden, he is the intimate Confidant of Him (Allah) who possesses Permanence.

88 To him the (divine) Word is addressed, his is the answer, his the rightness, together with good pleasure.

89 His is piety, his is joy: the Houris (of Paradise) receive him after the Decree is fulfilled.

90 To him my words are addressed, after my repentance from every fault, with firm resolve.

91 Yours (O Prophet) are wonders, from the Lord of creatures, that belonged to no predecessor and will belong to no successor.

92 Among them, the turning away of every loathsome thing from whoever fears, after he has sought refuge (with you).

93 O best of creatures, you have driven calamities away from the one laden with sins: you have willed my salvation.

94 You are the Generous, I am the Servant (Khadīm): forever I shall make my praise of you endure.

95 I have sought a eulogy that grants success, that suffices against disgrace and hardship.

96 Truly, through my eulogy I have beheld my gain with certainty, and my success together with the edifice (I raise).

97 But I have fallen short of what I sought, and I have not praised (as I would wish), like the noble ones.

98 My ink has run dry, my heart has been left bewildered in praising the Guide of the Substitutes (al-Abdāl).

99 How then could I encompass the praise of him (Muḥammad) who gives life (to hearts), when his praise exhausts even the wise?

100 But I call all the servants to my pillar (Muḥammad), with none sent away.

101 O people of the land, O people of the sea, turn towards the Kind One, ocean of generosity!

102 He erases my faults, unveils the mysteries hidden from me, cleanses my inmost being of darkness.

103 He bestows benefits, fells my enemies, grants what I desire, in ease.

104 He erases vices, grants virtues, revives dwellings after they have been effaced.

105 How excellent a Beloved! How excellent a Near One! How excellent a Wise One, effacer of what is hidden!

106 He protected the family, spared the fighting, erased the arena (of strife), without reconciliation.

107 He has hidden evils, made good things manifest, led joy to whoever hopes.

108 He has healed the sick, banished pain, led the Servant (Khadīm) to salvation.

109 He has loosed the fetters, spread grace: harm has turned its back, and benefit has come.

110 He dispels misfortunes, manifests wonders, banishes calamities, he is manifest in his gifts.

111 He bestows good things even upon the palaces, he is manifest in victories, he is manifest in splendour.

Mawahibu 3

112 A rain that has benefited whoever sought benefit, a lion that has annihilated the cunning foes.

113 His are the noble merits, his the wonders, his the marvels, without end.

114 A gazelle speaks to him, a lizard greets him, a bird reveres him, as one endowed with intelligence would.

115 A tree walks (towards him), rain gushes forth (at his call), a well overflows without a rope.

116 A (palm) trunk yearns for him and moans for him, a wolf comes forward to tend the sheep.

117 He attained glory from the time he made the Night Journey (al-Isrā') in his body, openly, without falsehood.

118 How magnificent is the Lord who made the Beloved (Muḥammad) journey by night, for nearness (to Him), in purity!

119 He spent the night journeying after purification, bringing lasting joy among the Prophets.

120 The night journey of the Trustworthy (Muḥammad) with the Trustworthy (Gabriel), upon the trusty mount (al-Burāq), to the elect.

121 It erased error, made Majesty manifest, made Beauty manifest to the God-fearing.

122 They placed him before them (as imām) when they met him, and honoured him, they who possess purity (the Prophets).

123 He became their master, stood apart from them, and was kept (beyond) them after the ascent.

124 He returned that same night, poured out gifts, surpassed every torrent (of grace), from Him (Allah) who possesses Permanence.

125 He came with provisions for the people of good, while the people of wretchedness returned with harm.

126 He attained perfection, surpassed all men, crossed every arena, crowned with the turban (of honour).

127 He attained majesty, he attained beauty, from Him (Allah) who is the Most High, Lord of heaven.

128 How noble is the Exalted one (Muḥammad), protector of my family, shepherd of men, fortress of women!

129 How excellent a Great One! How excellent a Generous One! How excellent a stay for the chiefs!

130 He keeps from the Deceiver (Satan), erases delusions, grants piety without delay.

131 He builds the dwellings together with good things, and desires joy for those who sit with him.

132 To him my eulogy after my success, in the morning and in the evening.

133 A blessing of six (verses), with a eulogy of six (verses), reaches him without fail, following the example (of the pious).

134 May the Lord who glorified him send blessing upon him, and he has surpassed all among the God-fearing.

135 May (God) pour His peace upon him, make his station august and magnify his reward among the discerning.

136 Upon the Freed One (Al-ʿAtīq, Abū Bakr), gateway of the Path, brother of trust, be all good pleasure.

137 Upon the Vizier (ʿUmar), sword of the Bearer of glad tidings (Muḥammad), be the good pleasure of the All-Powerful, who carries out the Decree.

138 Upon the Light (ʿUthmān), brother of modesty, be the most excellent good pleasure of Him (Allah) who possesses Permanence.

139 Upon the Kinsman (ʿAlī), lion of battles, be the good pleasure of the Answerer (Al-Mujīb), with an ascent (in rank).

140 Upon the Companions, who answered (the call), on the day of anguish, be the good pleasure of praise.

141 How excellent the men! Theirs is the arena (of glory): they were struck and they struck in the hour of trial.

142 May the good pleasure of the All-Hearing (As-Samīʿ) be upon them all, on the Day of humility, on the Day of the Call.

143 Masters of good, masters of harm, for whoever seeks provision or whoever seeks aggression.

144 Each of them is valiant, has a following, and holds exaltation in the time of harmony.

145 How excellent the armoured warriors! How excellent the defenders! They struck down the enemies without hiding.

146 Through them I have forgiven and not been harsh; through them I have repelled the slanderers.

147 The harm-bearing enemies turn towards others than me, by leave of the best one (Muḥammad), effacer of arrogance.

148 I have entrusted my affair to Him (Allah) who preserves my life, together with the people of Badr, without any doubt.

149 Truly I declare it: whoever assails with boldness does not turn against me.

150 O Lord of Majesty, O Sublime (Al-Muta‘ālī), O Best of Protectors, answer my supplication.

151 Pour forth blessing and peace upon him (Muḥammad) to whom (God) spoke; protect my dwellings and guard what I have gathered.

152 Upon the Messenger, gateway of access to the attainment of what one asks, the most protective of shepherds.

153 Pour forth Your blessing perpetually, increase peace, and accept my pens and my edifice.

154 O Lord of Will, O Lord of Benefit, make happiness everlasting for me, through Your care.

155 Keep me from aggression, increase me in right guidance, increase me in following (the Prophet), without toil.

156 Make pure my hidden life, without harshness on my part; make good my supper, make good my midday meal.

157 O Lord of Existence, be with me in generosity, and let my night vigil (hujūd) go beyond what is due.

158 Grant me love (of You), lead to me what I desire, O You who have bestowed benefit without wage.

159 Grant me piety, keep me from the Deceiver (Satan): (make me) a servant who is a joy to whoever beholds him.

160 Accept my pens and receive my words with praise, without blame upon me and without doubt.

161 Make my tongue upright, illumine my heart, purify my hopes and increase my innocence.

162 You have removed harm from me, led provisions to me: so keep me from the injustice of whoever makes a show.

163 Rescue my family from error, and through what is lawful make my wealth everlasting.

164 Keep me from reproach, lead to me the Book (the Qur'an) and accept my repentance, O You who have purchased (the souls of the believers).

165 O Best of Lords, Best of those who nurture, You have gladdened my heart after I asked You for Your gifts.

166 Pour forth blessing and peace upon him (Muḥammad) who completes (Prophethood), and preserve my whole being, without end.
