PARTIE 1

Wa Kaana Haqqan 1

1. I have turned my whole being, with praise and thanksgiving, to the Protector of the believers (Allah), the Appreciative (Ash-Shakūr).

2. Be, O Protector, O All-Powerful, O Helper, the support of the believers: truly You are the Guide, the All-Seeing.

3. You have swiftly turned away from us, towards others, whoever is not a believer, O Lord of Time (Allah).

4. You have swiftly turned away from us, towards others, whoever is not a Muslim, O Lord of Time (Allah).

5. You have swiftly turned away from us, towards others, whoever is not a doer of excellence (muḥsin), O Lord of Time (Allah).

6. You have blessed us with the most excellent of faiths: so extend to all the blessing of security.

7. Through it (faith) and through Islam You have guarded us: so guard everyone from blame.

8 You placed foremost the Master of creation (Muḥammad) — O Aḥmad! — and the Prophets and the Messengers, O You who are praised (Allah).

9 Bring to them forever blessing and peace, just as You covered with disgrace whoever did not worship You.

10 To the Prophet (Muḥammad) bring blessing and peace, and to the Prophets and the Messengers, O You who sent down the Word (Allah).

11 Upon the Prophet Muḥammad and his Family pour forth Your blessing and Your peace, and answer my plea.

12 For the Chosen One (Muḥammad) decree, without end, what gladdens him, and accept my service.

13 Facilitate for the Master of creation (Muḥammad) that which he has chosen, O Everlasting (Allah), who made him the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār).

14 O Bestower of benefit (An-Nāfiʿ), pour forth forever blessing and peace upon him (Muḥammad) who leads to You whoever worships You.

15 Decree a blessing for all the Prophets and the Messengers, joined with peace, and accept my writings with gratitude.

16 O Bestower of benefit, pour forth with reverence blessing and peace upon the Prophet (Muḥammad), his Family and the noble Companions.

17 May the blessing of the Lord of the Mighty Throne, the Everlasting Refuge (Aṣ-Ṣamad), be upon the Prophet (Muḥammad), his Family and those who praise.

18 Turn back the schemes of the enemies upon the enemies themselves, O You who granted me that which confounds the enemies.

19 Bring to every Muslim man and every Muslim woman a joy, O You who have sufficed me against the oppressors.

20 To every believing man and every believing woman bring abiding glad tidings, for the Sufis, people of spiritual purity.

21 To every doer of good, man and woman, extend the loftiest glad tidings, seen as worthy of all praise.

22 Turn towards the community of the Messenger of God (Muḥammad) — upon him the best of God's blessings —

23 the aid of Him (Allah) who, when He says "Be!", it is; O You who bring into being wishes that were not yet.

24 Today I have addressed You in intimate prayer with praise and thanksgiving, on behalf of the believers, O Protector, O Appreciative.

25 The "Be, and it is" (Kun fa-yakūn) leads to me, from You, what I need, without rancour or dispute.

26 You have banished Iblīs (Satan) forever towards others than me, in this month, and likewise whoever has not worshipped.

27 Turn towards those who have believed, submitted and done good that which confounds those who have not submitted.

28 Bring into being, for the community of the Prophet (Muḥammad) — may the Lord, sublime in His majesty, bless him and grant him peace —

29 an answer that drives the enemies away from them, towards others, forever, and with them every ill.

30 O Bestower of benefit, O Generous, O Vigilant Guardian (Al-Muhaymin), answer me and him who keeps watch under Your guardianship.

31 They have kept (the faith): protect the community of the best of Messengers (Muḥammad) from those who disbelieved in the Messengers.

32 Bring them, without delay, the mighty victory, and give them glad tidings, in this life and in the life to come.

33 Bring to the people of faith that which increases love for You, O You with whom is boundless increase.

34 Free the people of Islam from any need to lean upon Your enemies or to find rest with them.

35 Upon the Prophet and Messenger (Muḥammad), the sure Refuge, pour forth blessing and peace, O You who annihilate whoever has denied.

36 To the Chosen One (Muḥammad), his Family and the noble Companions convey Your two salutations of peace, and grant me generously what I seek.

37 O You to whom belong creation and the fullness of all things, O Enricher (Al-Mughnī): You have freed me from any need of what hearts conceal.

38 Today and yesterday I have addressed You in intimate prayer, full of hope, and beyond any doubt You have fulfilled my need.

39 Bring to the community of the Prophet Aḥmad (Muḥammad) — as I invoke blessing upon him, among those who are praised —

40 a mighty victory embracing the great together with the small; and subdue for them whoever challenges them.

41 Preserve the Ḥadīth and the derived sciences (al-furūʿ), as well as the Book (the Qur'an), from those who have refused repentance.

42 O Exalter (Ar-Rāfiʿ), through me raise high the Book (the Qur'an) and the derived sciences, together with the authentic Ḥadīth, O Lord of splendour.

43 You have given me everything without taking anything away, and for me You bring what I ask at the very moment of asking.

44 Bring to me what I desire and, through me, benefit the creatures, O You who make the cannon needless.

45 Through the Chosen One (Muḥammad) You erased every intent to harm me, and led to me what the God-fearing love.

46 You have turned towards me that which never ceases to be a marvel, for ever, for the righteous, the elect.

47 You have extended to me the aid of Him (Allah) from whom nothing is hidden; You have bestowed on me what is most secret.

48 You have repelled whoever hated me, and he fled towards what afflicts him without respite, laden with anguish.

49 O Allah, O All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān), O All-Seeing, O All-Powerful, O Most Merciful (Ar-Raḥīm), O Helper!

50 You have saved from the devils, all together, those who have attached themselves to me: so hear my thanksgiving.

51 I have turned my thanksgiving to the All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān), the King, the Most Merciful, Lord of the ages.

52 He honoured me in my dwelling and in my land; the One who honours (Allah) has purified my soul with security.

PARTIE 2

Wa Kaana Haqqan 2

53 The All-Merciful honoured me with an honour that kept every harm from my whole being; and the grace poured upon me has sufficed.

54 I addressed my intimate prayer to my Lord in the month of Ramaḍān, the month of security, of wishes granted and of abundance.

55 I praised Him with a praise that drives Iblīs (Satan) forever towards others than us, driving him away in grief.

56 The hearts of all the enemies have turned towards what is not harm, and wishes have been turned towards me.

57 The hearts of all those who have succeeded have turned towards me; and my Lord is the One who sets all things right (Al-Muṣliḥ).

58 Towards those who once oppressed me the harm meant for me has turned, and likewise the fetters.

59 From me harm and trial have vanished, by the grace of the Enricher (Allah), who has led sweetness to me.

60 To Him my thanksgiving, until the Gardens of Paradise, the abode of fulfilled wishes, of security and of favours.

61 My whole being gives Him thanks through the Book (the Qur'an), without enmity or reproach.

62 I called upon Him in intimacy, an intimacy full of honour, and He never ceases to be the Bestower of benefit, the Generous.

63 To Him I have directed my words here, with certainty, and my heart has found peace.

64 You have helped me, for You are the Helper (An-Naṣīr); You have erased my fault, for You are the All-Seeing (Al-Baṣīr).

65 O Everlasting Refuge (Aṣ-Ṣamad), You brought me in Ramaḍān, in overflowing measure, what I had sought from You before it.

66 In it (Ramaḍān) You returned to me what You love for me, and You warded off from me whatever brings harm.

67 You answered me with the answer of Him (Allah) who is exalted above all slumber, and You led to me a swift fulfilment.

68 By Your noble Face bring relief to the believers, and fulfil their hope,

69 as I invoke blessing and peace upon the Prophet (Muḥammad), bearer of glad tidings to every kinsman and every stranger.

70 O Protector, grant joy to the Muslims, O You who erased from me harm and affliction.

71 You erased every affliction that had passed over me, O You who accepted all my services.

72 Save the Family of the Chosen One (Muḥammad) — after blessing, joined with peace — from their enemies who loathe them.

73 Through him (the Prophet) make easy for them whatever has become hard, for all that You make easy becomes easy.

74 Your servant, servant of Your Servant (Khadīm ar-Rasūl), has addressed You in intimate prayer, hoping to obtain his wishes from You.

75 Those made happy through good have triumphed, and those who knew no happiness have returned laden with harm.

76 The righteous (Al-Abrār) have been honoured with bliss, and the wicked have been flung headlong into the Blaze.

77 Those who abandoned worship have been driven towards the fire of Him (Allah) who annihilates whoever does not obey Him.

78 He has toiled in vain who wished to undo what was firmly established by Him (Allah) with whom the guest suffers no wrong.

79 The recompense of whoever challenged the Lord of the Throne is weeping, and whomever the Lord of the Footstool (Al-Kursī) makes weep, weeps.

80 Truly, those who disbelieved and refused to repent have seen the recompense of what they did.

81 In their bellies scorpions have made their dwelling, and each of them drinks the putrid pus.

82 For the Muslim men and all the Muslim women is the light of Him (Allah) who made the people of darkness vanish.

83 They are those who abide forever in the Gardens of Paradise, and in what delights them they are made everlasting.

84 They have gathered their wishes without anything being taken from them, and all, filled with glad tidings, are transfigured.

85 Their hope is fulfilled, and for eternity they have been given possession of what no king has ever seen.

86 Their edifice rises and does not sink; as for him who challenges the Most High (Allah), he is cast down low.

87 Believe in God and submit all together, and do good for the Face of the Everlasting (Allah), who has subdued (every tyrant).

88 He is the Divinity, He is the All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān), He is the Most Merciful (Ar-Raḥīm), and to Him belong the ages.

89 From me to Him the most fruitful praise and the most grateful thanks, in service of the Chosen One (Muḥammad), the thankful servant.

90 I have renounced a great part of what is permitted, for the sake of Him (Allah) who sufficed me against those who bark (the slanderers).

91 I give Him thanks: He has led to me the Substitutes (Al-Abdāl), just as He sufficed me against war and dispute.

92 Glory be to Him! He is the Generous (Al-Karīm), the Praiseworthy (Al-Ḥamīd); and whoever does not love me is consumed by grief.

93 May the peace of Him (Allah) who turns no harm against me be upon him (Muḥammad) through whom I have been kept from deception.

94 The recompense of Him (Allah) who is exalted above all likeness has led to me what is hidden from my peers.

95 Praise be to God, without end, for the son of ʿAbd Allāh (Muḥammad), the one clothed in splendour.

96 The excellence of the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār, Muḥammad) is not hidden, save from him from whom, as a punishment, it is veiled.

97 To the Chosen One (Muḥammad) I have devoted that which turned Iblīs (Satan) away towards others than us, and he has departed.

98 I struck down falsehood with truth, and it vanished; and for me my God has filled to the brim, like an overflowing cup, His giving of drink.

99 I have given over, O Lord, to my Sovereign the whole of my being: my state is for Him, as are my work and my intention.

100 By God and by the Messenger (Muḥammad) I have repelled those who opposed the Truth, and I have obtained what I asked.

101 The Divinity (Allah) has made me free of association and of all hypocrisy, and has guaranteed my felicity.

102 He has made me free of my soul's fault through the Prophet (Muḥammad), upon whom He sends blessing with overflowing peace.

PARTIE 3

Wa Kaana Haqqan 3

103 He (Muḥammad) is the one besides whom I have seen no one, nor do I see any other in anything: he has guided and bestowed.

104 Muḥammad — upon whom He (Allah) sends blessing and peace — is my means to Him, and to me he has led the Word.

105 The Most Generous (Allah) has filled me with an abiding joy, for I am His intimate friend, beloved and servant.

106 To Him my words are addressed: He has erased all turbidity, and has turned the traitor towards others than us.

107 You supported us against the enemies and they were overcome, and towards others than us they turned back humbled.

108 May the peace of the Everlasting (Allah), who has led reward to me, be upon him (Muḥammad) who made me heir to rectitude.

109 Upon him (Muḥammad) who wished that I be his Servant (Khadīm), be the two salutations of peace of the Ancient Maker of creation.

110 To Him (Allah) to whom my whole being belongs in worship goes my praise; and whoever opposed me, He has annihilated.

111 The kingdom of Him (Allah) who has no rival has led to me what is hidden from the one who vies.

112 The All-Knowing (Al-ʿAlīm), the All-Aware (Al-Khabīr) spoke to me in intimacy, and the Vast (Al-Wāsiʿ), the Great (Al-Kabīr) lavished His gifts upon me.

113 The Beautiful (Al-Jamīl) filled me with joy — how excellent a Bestower of benefit! —; the King (Al-Malik) raised me, and He is the Exalter (Ar-Rāfiʿ).

114 He (Allah) who leads gifts to me has driven my adversities towards whoever once aimed at my harm.

115 The Sovereign, the Sovereign, the Sovereign (Al-Mālik), He to whom belongs the bestowal of all possession, has given me possession of:

116 a great reward, a recompense and a requital; and the promise made to me in Ramaḍān has been fulfilled.

117 The reward of Him (Allah) with whom nothing runs out has reached me, and exhaustion has never touched it.

118 The service of the best of the worlds, Aḥmad (Muḥammad) — upon him the two salutations of peace of the Generous (Allah), the Praised —

119 has gladdened the heart, purified my soul, and carried my adversities away towards others than me.

120 My pen gladdens the best of the worlds (Muḥammad) — upon him the two salutations of peace of Him (Allah) who removes pain.

121 To the Chosen One (Muḥammad) I have devoted all I possess; he has led benefit without harm, and (all things) have yielded in submission.

122 He (Muḥammad) is the Intercessor, he is the Valiant: through him my wrongdoing and my pains have been erased.

123 Muḥammad — may God bless him, together with the Family, the Companions and whoever is loyal to him —

124 has erased my affliction, has erased my illnesses, and through good pleasure my aims yield to me.

125 Our Prophet, the Chosen One (Al-Mukhtār), the best of the Prophets — upon him the two salutations of peace of my Beloved, my Lord (Allah).

126 To him (Muḥammad) I have led my whole being, openly and in secret; and he has guided me, and never (will he fail).

127 I have raised my service to the Means (Al-Wasīla, Muḥammad); may He (Allah) whose favour I behold send blessing upon him.

128 I have raised my service to the Effacer (Al-Māḥī, Muḥammad), the firm Support; and he has driven towards others than us whoever has gone astray.

129 He (Muḥammad) is the Prophet, the Messenger and the Intimate Friend (Al-Khalīl); he is the Beloved (Al-Ḥabīb), and he multiplies the little.

130 May the peace of the Everlasting (Allah), who never ceases to be the Everlasting Refuge (Aṣ-Ṣamad), be upon the Prophet and Messenger Aḥmad (Muḥammad).

131 Make everlasting the two salutations of peace of the Generous, the Everlasting Refuge (Allah), upon the Prophet, my means, Muḥammad.

132 Upon the Prophet, my means, Muḥammad, make everlasting the two salutations of peace of the Generous, the Everlasting Refuge (Allah).

133 O Allah, O Powerful (Al-Qādir), O All-Powerful (Al-Muqtadir), O You whose generosity hastens towards me!

134 Today and before today I have addressed You in intimate prayer, and for me You have set the breaking of the fast (ʿĪd al-Fiṭr) above the fast.

135 I have come with this ode, giving You thanks through it; and already before it You had led Your grace to me.

136 I have adorned this ode of mine with thanksgiving, and You never cease, O my Sovereign, to be the Appreciative (Ash-Shakūr).

137 You have honoured me with the honour of Him (Allah) who does what He wills, and all I have wished of You has come to pass.

138 You have given me, O Lord, from Your own presence, a wise Remembrance (the Qur'an), and I am well pleased with You.

139 You have blessed for me, O Lord, my letters and all else, and lavished goodness upon me.

140 Because You are the Generous, You have given me possession of what has led glad tidings and honour to me.

141 You have given me what made the heart forget all the harm gone by; You have erased the darknesses.

142 He (Allah) to whom none is equal has rewarded me with that by which He drove towards others than me whoever denied.

143 My Lord has honoured me with "Say: He is God, the One" and "none is equal to Him" (Sūrat al-Ikhlāṣ).

144 God, the Generous, the Everlasting Refuge, spoke to me in intimacy, an intimacy by which He sufficed me against grief.

145 The Most Generous (Allah) has turned towards me the most beneficial of generosities, and harm, without my repelling it, has ceased for me.

146 I ask Him that this ode be a wonder breaking the ordinary (khāriqa), fruitful in benefit.

147 O Ever-Living (Al-Ḥayy), O Self-Subsisting (Al-Qayyūm), pour forth blessing and peace upon him (Muḥammad) who came with the most beautiful of Words (the Qur'an).

148 Upon him (Muḥammad) who came with the most beautiful of Words pour forth blessing and peace, and accept this word of mine.

149 Bestow Your grace upon whoever reads these letters, with a goodness that surpasses all imagining.

150 For the composer of these letters make the gain everlasting, O You who sufficed him against this delusion and the barking (of slanderers).

151 O Protector, O All-Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān), O Most Merciful (Ar-Raḥīm), O Ever-Living (Al-Ḥayy), O Self-Subsisting (Al-Qayyūm), O You who honour me!

152 Your servant, the Servant (Khadīm ar-Rasūl), has addressed You in intimate prayer, with blessing, greeting with peace him (Muḥammad) who drives away the haters.
